ACOUSTIC CONSULTANTS

SHARPS REDMORE are a large, vibrant and experienced team of acoustic consultants. We have a varied client base, including major developers, contractors, retailers, planning consultancies, architects and infrastructure bodies for whom we undertake a wide variety of work in many aspects of acoustics.

We are based in beautiful Suffolk and with business locations in Scotland, the North East and North Wales.

■ Sharps Redmore believe in their consultants and want them to thrive and grow; working with others, leading or supporting teams, taking pride in going beyond clients expectations and exploring their own interests.

■ Sharps Redmore support their consultants, whether it is through training or helping them stretch themselves in contributing to the wider acoustic community.

■ Sharps Redmore want you to truly enjoy a career with us. We believe in placing significant trust in what you do, and having fun in performing it well is very important.

■ Sharps Redmore want you to feel you can grow as a consultant in what interests you, with roles and responsibilities that bring the best out of you.

We are looking for Acoustic Consultants with typically 5-10 years of consultancy experience in a wide range of acoustic consultancy services. Applicants should be able to manage medium-to-large scale clients, either individually or within a team through all planning and design stages, to completion.

You should be able to provide good references of your academic knowledge of acoustics and its practical implementation through your consultancy experience. You should identify specific skills you can bring to the company, in terms of environmental, building and architectural acoustics, and if possible in areas of mechanical acoustics, vibration analysis, computer modelling or skills outside of acoustics. You will also need to be a full member of the Institute of Acoustics.

We are also interested in applicants who want to move their career forward, but are settled in one region of the UK or abroad and who can prove their competency. You may wish to join one of our existing regional locations. You may be looking for that opportunity to run your own regional base or start a team. Sharps Redmore are particularly interested in the Greater Manchester and Bristol / South West regions.

We offer an excellent remuneration package. Salary is dependent upon qualifications and experience, and you would be provided with a Company car, health care and pension contributions commensurate with position and experience. Relocation expenses will be paid for the right candidate.
